EndNote: deduplication for systematic reviewers

Want to keep an accurate count of database results that won't be affected by deduplication?

- Create an EndNote group for each database searched

- Import references from each database into relevant group

- Create a combined group for de-duplication

- Copy (don't drag and drop) references from each database group to combined group
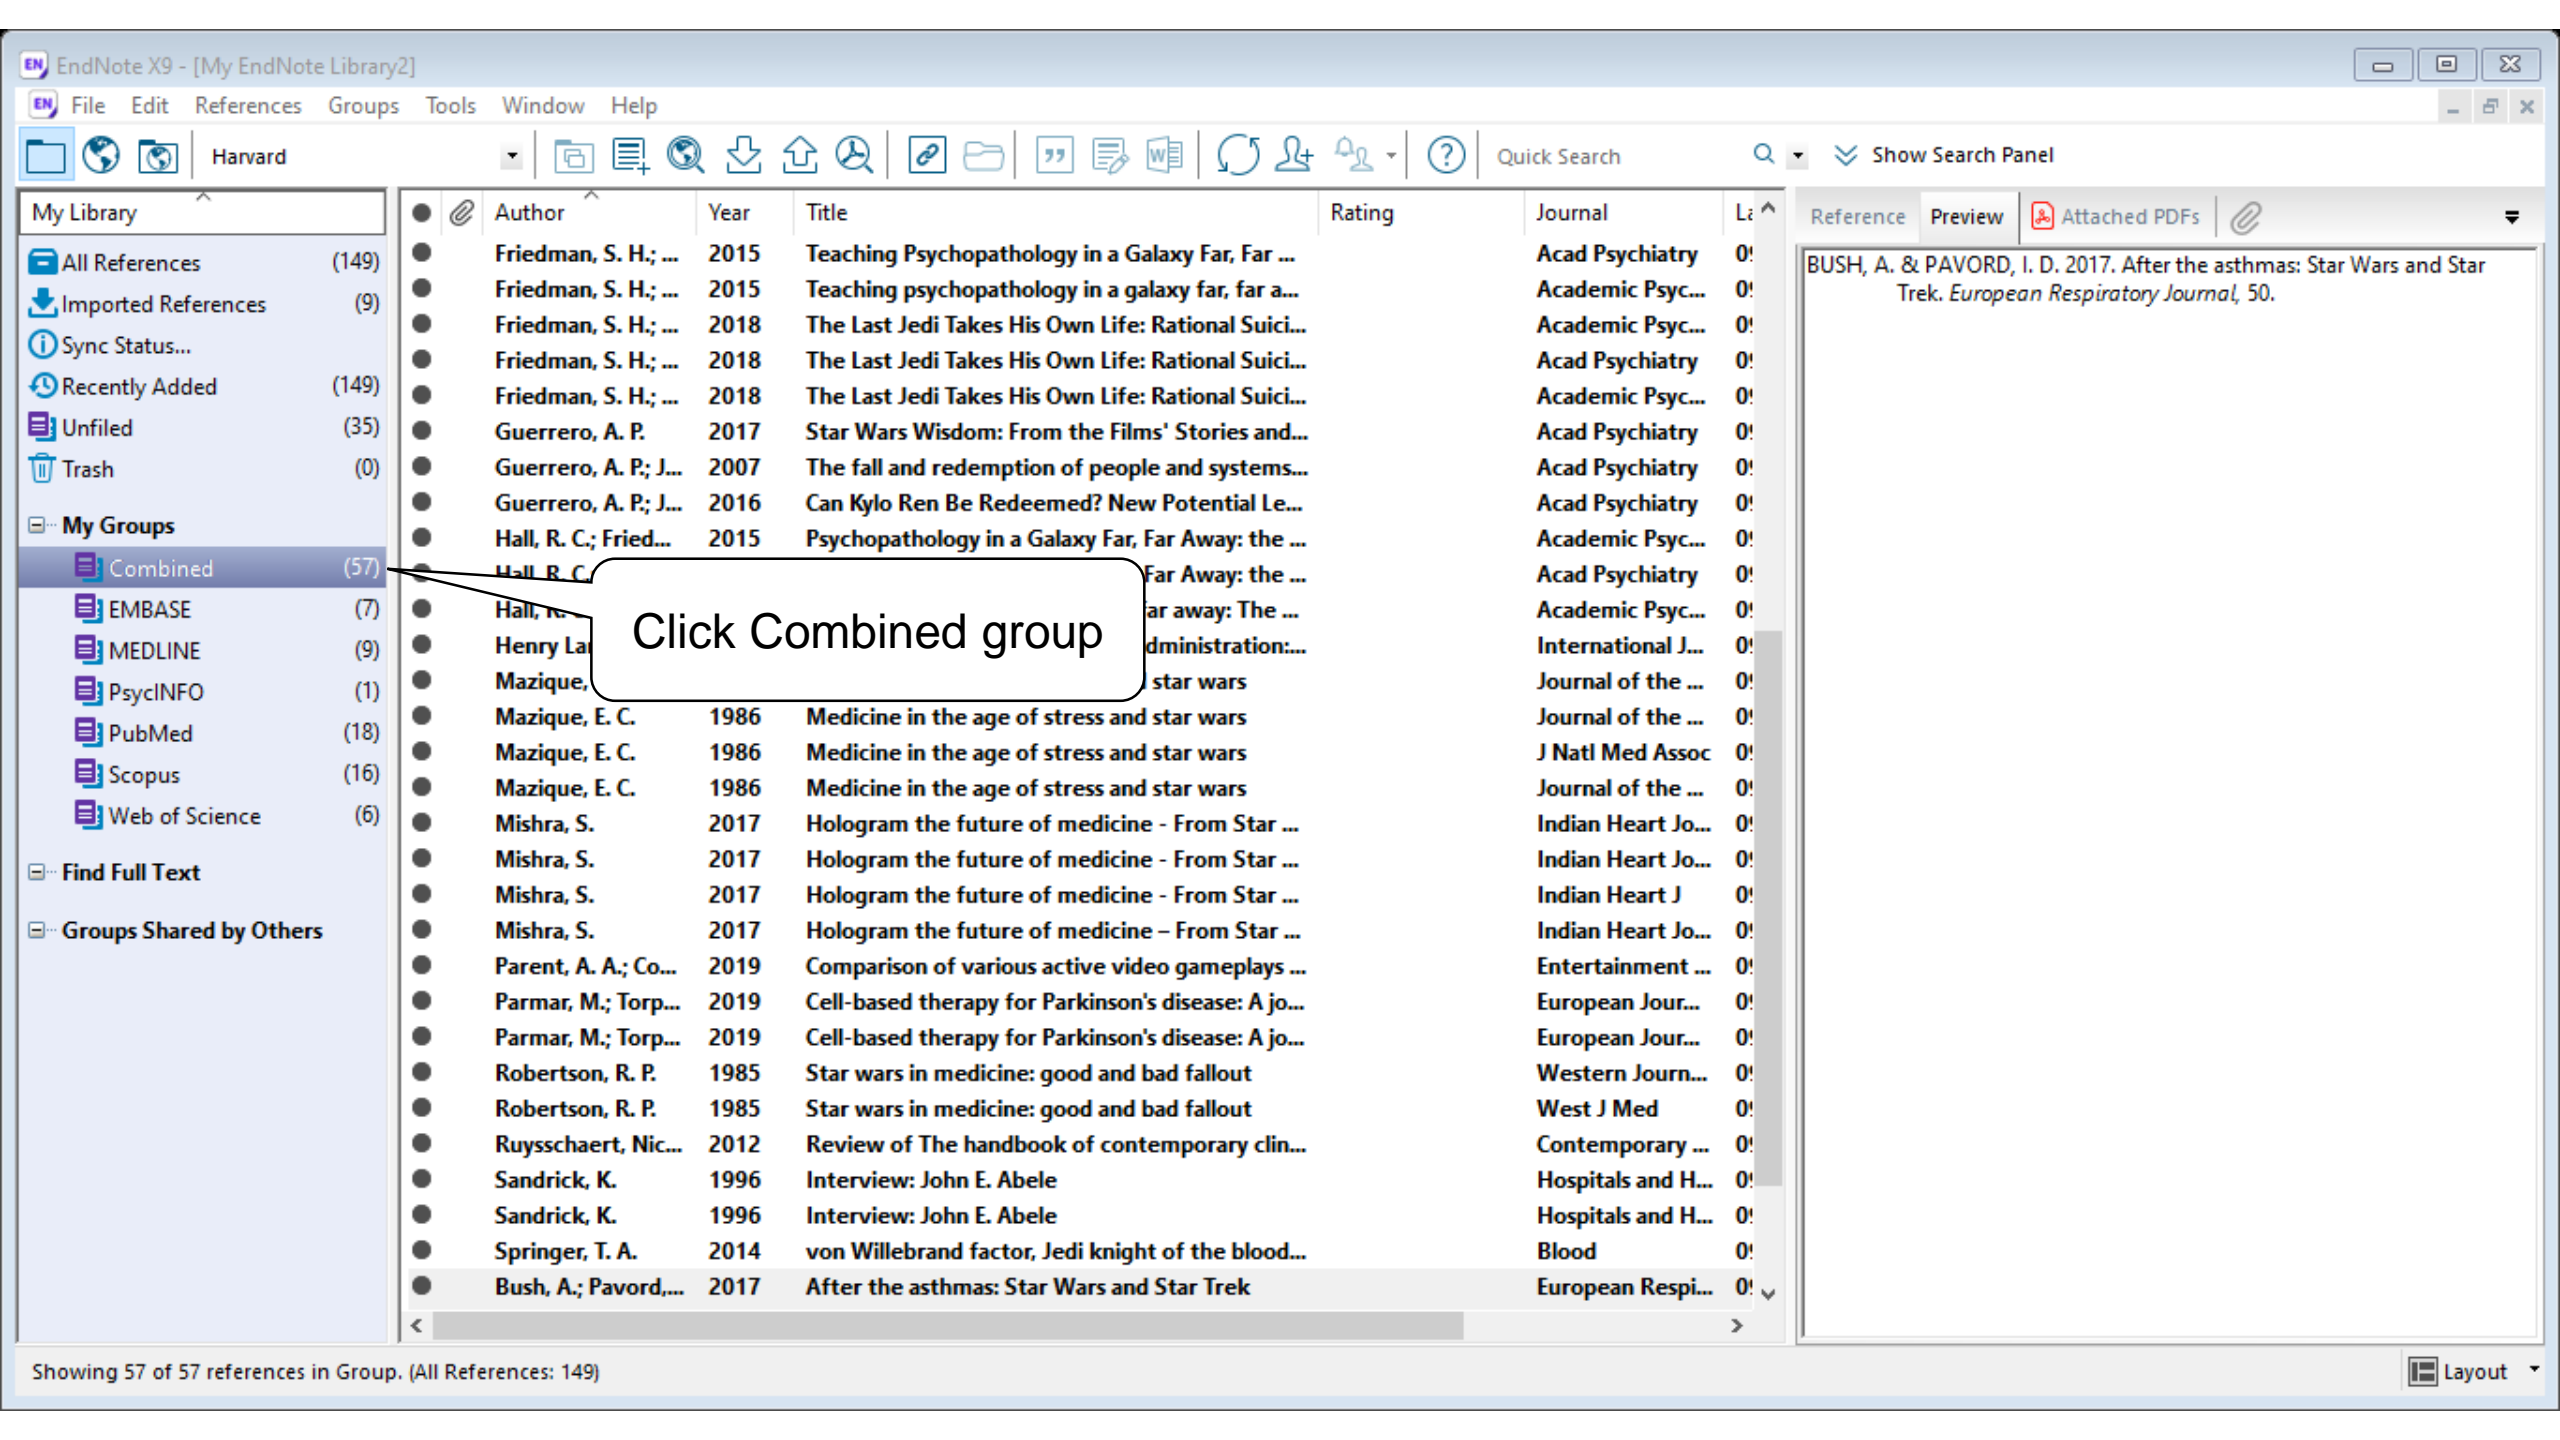

- Deduplicate the combined group only

Don't drag and drop database references into combined folder

Instead, right click and copy the references, then paste them into combined folder
